MY FAVORITE ANCESTOR, CORNELIUS CRUZEN

Research by Shirley Cruzen Stevens, Ann Arbor, Michigan

Everyone has a favorite ancestor and Cornelius Kroesen/Cruzen is mine! I know more of this grandfather than any other. I am knowledgeable of the books that were placed on his shelves and the crops planted in his fields. He was born in New Jersey, reared in Virginia and died in Ohio. I have loved him, envied him and grown weary when the trail has ended abruptly.

Cornelius Cruzen became an excellent point of reference. Every event in my lineage occurred before Cornelius or after Cornelius. He was the last ancestor to be born under the British rule. When the Revolutionary War ended, Cornelius was in his mid-teens, so he had experienced the tyranny that his forefathers had endured. My third great-grandfather was the first to marry and raise a family in a free democracy.

Cornelius Kroesen was born in Hillsborough Township, Somerset County, New Jersey, on 1 February 1769, the sixth child and fourth son of Derrick Kroesen and Elizabeth Van Nuys. His baptism date was recorded in the Hillsborough Dutch Reformed Church at Millstone as 26 February 1769.

He was about five years of age when his parents made the long journey to Berkeley County, Virginia. Cornelius was reared in an environment that was steeped in history and rich in culture. He grew to manhood in the romantic, mountainous setting of the Shenandoah Valley.

On 24 March 1800, Cornelius Kroesen married a young widow, Hannah (Sheeley) Philips, near Harpers Ferry, Virginia. She was the daughter of John Sheley and Margaret Davis and had been previously married to James Philips.

In about 1806, Cornelius and his brothers anglicized their surname of Kroesen to Cruzen. It was quite a drastic change for a Dutchman!

Cornelius and Hannah settled in the southeastern sector of Jefferson County, Virginia, in the forested hollows adjacent to the western slope of the Blue Ridge Mountains and in close proximity to Kabletown. They owned only a few acres of land, partly due to the fact that farmland was at a premium in the valley.

The patriarch, John Sheley, was seventy-nine years old when he led his family out of the Shenandoah. Family tradition states, "They came over the mountains in oxen carts in a large caravan." I am certain that Cornelius and Hannah were part of that family venture. They arrived in Silver Creek Township, Greene County, Ohio, in the spring of 1806.

It was apparent that farming was not their principal livelihood. Hannah's maternal side of the house was engaged in the textile business and their trades were weaving, fulling and dyeing. This was evidenced by the fact that flax was grown on their farmland. Weaving looms, spinning wheels and textile implements were listed in the inventory of Cornelius Cruzen's estate. The daughters of Cornelius and Hannah were known to have purchased implements at other estate auctions in Silver Creek Township.

Hannah died in 1833 and Cornelius followed her in death in 1835. They are buried in the Sheley Cemetery on the old family homestead.

The children of Cornelius and Hannah were: Margaret, Elizabeth, Rachel, James Philips, Abigail, Harvey, Mary Ann, John S. (my ancestor), William D., and Bertha Ann.

CHARLES P. BENNETT, MICHIGAN PIONEER

Research by Gwendolyn Bennett Sunderson, Anaheim, California

Charles Porter Bennett was born on 8 January 1812, the fourth child of John M. Bennett, a shoemaker, and his wife, Mary Porter. He was baptized in the parish of Mickleton, Gloucestershire, England, on 24 May 1812. Charles left England on 6 April 1830 to seek his fortune in America. He spent fifteen months elsewhere, probably in New York State, before arriving in Ypsilanti, Michigan, in 1831. He moved to White Pigeon, St. Joseph County, Michigan, but was dissatisfied with business there and returned to Ypsilanti some time before 1836. He purchased a town lot about 1836 and by 1838 had built a home there. On 10 May 1838 he married Polly Child.

In 1847 Charles purchased a sixty-acre farm south of Ypsilanti. His six children were all born in the Ypsilanti area. Three of these children died in childhood. Those surviving were Hannah Frances Bennett, Mary Porter Bennett, and Charles Walter Bennett.

In 1860 the family moved to a one hundred and fifty-acre farm in Milford Township, Oakland County, Michigan. Charles and Polly's eldest daughter, Hannah Frances, married John Atkin in 1867. John owned a farm adjacent to the Bennett's in Milford Township. The second daughter, Mary Porter, married Charles Morse Phillips of Fenton, Michigan, in 1876. After their marriage they resided in Mason and Williamston, Michigan.

Charles Walter remained on the farm and in 1884 married Ellen Skeman, of Brighton, Michigan. They had two children, Charles Porter Bennett, and Mary Edith Bennett. Mary married Clifford Rowe in 1911. Charles Porter, his grandfather's namesake, became the third generation on the family farm. In 1911 he married Mabel Potter. They had two sons, David Porter Bennett, and Wilfred Potter Bennett. David married Frieda Elizabeth Anderson in 1942. David and Frieda's children are Charles Porter Bennett III, Gwendolyn Sue Sunderson, and William David Bennett.

In 1960 the Bennett farm was designated a centennial farm. Before it was sold in 1968, five generations of Bennetts had resided there.

MY ANCESTORS' PARTICIPATION IN AMERICAN HISTORY

Research by Dorothy J. Harker Siano, Ann Arbor, Michigan

One of the many bonuses of researching family history is learning about how one's ancestors may have participated in the history and development of this country, and to what degree.

Among my ancestors there are those who came early to these shores, such as Thomas Barber in 1634 and Benjamin Thwing in the following year. Thomas fought in the Pequot Wars. Somewhat later a Thwing fought in the French and Indian Wars.

There were several ancestors who fought against the British during the Revolution. One particular ancestor, Leonard Spaulding, was deeply involved during this period of history. He was on the eastern shore of Lake Champlain with Rogers' Rangers prior to the actual outbreak of hostilities. He took part in the capture of Fort Ticonderoga and later fought in both the Battle of Bennington and the Battle of White Plains, being wounded during the latter. At the close of the war he returned to his home in Dummerston Township, Windham County, Vermont. There he was one of the selectmen and was chosen as first representative of the town of Dummerston in the Vermont Legislature in November 1772.

A more recent, maternal ancestor was Simon C.F. Cobban, a soldier of the Civil War. Though he was a member of a family which had emigrated from Aberdeen, Scotland, he enlisted, then re-enlisted after having been given a medical discharge, with the Vermont Volunteers on the side of the north. He saw service in several campaigns, enduring many hardships those many months, but miraculously escaped being killed or wounded. At the end of the Civil War he went to the state of Wisconsin where he made his home in Chippewa Falls and was influential in the growth of that city.

Coming down to the last generation, my father, Jesse Sprague Harker as a young man, spent several years as a foreman of a crew of workmen who were setting telegraph poles and stringing wire for Western Union through the sparsely settled regions of our northwestern states, thereby extending the lines of communication.

Even those folks who did nothing outstanding to distinguish themselves from kindred souls, deserve recognition for their contributions for they, too, endured hardships, but persevered as they moved ever westward. The stories of all these people makes our history more personal and meaningful and generates in me a certain pride.
